EMPLOYED WAGE AND SALARY EARNERS : JUNE 1971 TO JUNE 1975

This bulletin contains a revised series of estimates of wage and salary earners in employment for each month from June 1971 to June 1975. Estimates for later months are published in Employed Wage and Salary Earners : Preliminary (Reference No. 6.12) and Employment and Unemployment (Reference No. 6.4).

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The revised estimates contained in this bulletin replace the series published in Employed Wage and Salary Earners : Preliminary (Reference No. 6.12) and Employment and Unemployment (Reference No. 6.4). The statistics for June 1971 are referred to herein as "benchmarks", (see paragraphs 5-9 below). For the period July 1971 to June 1975 the figures are estimates designed to measure month-to-month changes in the sector of employment to which the benchmarks relate.

2. Between benchmarks the employment data are obtained from three main sources, namely (a) payroll tax returns, (b) returns from government bodies, and (c) some other returns (e.g., for hospitals); the balance, i.e. unrecorded private employment, is estimated. At June 1971 recorded employment obtained from the foregoing sources represented about 90 per cent of the employees in the industries covered, as determined by the benchmarks.

3. The figures in this bulletin generally relate only to civilian wage and salary earners, not the total labour force. They therefore exclude employers, self-employed persons, unpaid helpers and the unemployed. Also excluded, because of the inadequacy of data, are employees in agriculture and private households employing staff. For the sake of brevity, wage and salary earners are referred to in the tables as "employees". Defence forces are included only in Table 1.

4. Although the revised estimates measure reasonably well the short-term trends in employment in the defined field, they may be less reliable for longer-term measurement. There are conceptual differences between benchmarks and payroll data, and changes in such factors as labour turnover, multiple jobholding and part-time working all affect the trend over longer periods.

Adoption of new benchmarks

5. The benchmarks for this employment series were established by analysing data from the 1971 population census and other relevant sources such as special returns from government bodies and the Bureau's economic censuses and surveys.

6. The concepts and definitions adopted at the 1971 population census conformed closely to the recommendations of the Eighth International Conference of Labour Statisticians. At the census the following questions were asked in respect of all persons fifteen years of age and over :

"Did this person have a full or part-time job, or business or farm of any kind last week (even if this person was temporarily absent from a job because of sickness, holidays, industrial dispute, etc.)?"

"Did this person do any work at all last week for payment or profit (even if this person was working only part-time or helping without pay in a family business)?"

Provided they had not been temporarily laid off by their employer without pay for the whole of the week, persons who answered "yes" to either of these questions were classified as employed. Persons in this category were classified as wage and salary earners if on their census schedule they were stated to be "a wage or salary earner" in the job they held in the previous week.

7. For a number of reasons the estimates of employed wage and salary earners previously published for June 1971 differed from the corresponding figures obtained from the 1971 population census. The relevant total figures are shown below.

Civilian Employees : Australia, June 1971 (Excluding agriculture and private domestic service) ('000)

	Males	Females	Persons
Published estimates	2,960.9	1,516.9	4,477.8
Population census	2,866.3	1,456.3	4,322.6

8. There were also considerable differences in the figures for individual States and Territories. Direct analysis of differences by industry is not possible because of the adoption of a new industry classification in the census, (see paragraph 12). The principal reasons for the differences between the previously published estimates and the census figures are as follows:

- there is an unavoidable accumulation of errors in the intercensal employment estimates, e.g. in estimating the movements in unrecorded employment;
- apart from the undercount to which population censuses are generally subject, evidence from census post-enumeration surveys indicates that the completion of census questionnaires by householders tends to identify a smaller number of persons as being in the labour force than do other methods of measurement (e.g. household surveys conducted by personal interview), and that components of the total labour force, such as employed wage and salary earners, tend to be affected in the same way;
- estimated monthly movements in civilian employment are derived mainly from returns from employers relating to establishments or enterprises, but the population census figures are derived from particulars recorded by individuals on census schedules. The latter do not in all cases provide precise information to allow accurate coding of industry;

- (d) previously published estimates for June 1971 included about 7,000 male and 17,000 female trainee teachers, who are not included in the new benchmarks or subsequent monthly estimates;
- (e) crews of overseas ships are excluded from the monthly employment estimates;
- (f) some persons are not enumerated in the census in the State or Territory in which they work, e.g. persons resident in New South Wales and working in the Australian Capital Territory and persons who at the time of the population census are on holidays interstate.

9. Population census data were not always accepted as a matter of course in determining the June 1971 benchmarks. The factors mentioned above were taken into account and particulars of employment obtained from other sources (see paragraph 5) were used in analysing and, where necessary, in revising the estimates. It should be noted that figures in this bulletin are subject to further revision as the results of later censuses and surveys become available.

Post benchmark data

10. Data supplied by reporting enterprises or establishments generally refer to persons on the payroll for the last pay-period in each month. Persons who are on paid leave or who work during part of the pay-period and are unemployed or involved in an industrial dispute during the rest of the period are generally counted as employed. Those not shown on employers' payrolls because they are on leave without pay, involved in an industrial dispute or stood down for the entire period are excluded.

11. In the States, payroll tax returns are lodged at present by all employers paying more than $800 a week in wages (other than certain Australian Government bodies, religious and benevolent institutions, public hospitals and other similar organisations specifically exempted under the Australian and State Payroll Tax Acts, 1971-1975). Up to the end of 1975, payroll tax returns were lodged by employers paying more than $400 a week in wages. This level of $400 a week still applies to employers in the Territories.

Industry

12. The industry classification used throughout the series contained in this bulletin is the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC), described in the Bureau publication Australian Standard Industrial Classification (Preliminary Edition), 1969, Volume 1. This classification is not directly comparable with those adopted for population censuses before 1971 and used in previously published estimates of civilian employees. Table 3 of this bulletin includes descriptions, generally abbreviated, only for ASIC Divisions. Sub-division and group levels of the classification are shown in numeric form. For complete descriptions see the table Australian Standard Industrial Classification - Explanation of Codes Used, following these notes.

Estimates for earlier periods

13. For the period June 1966 to June 1971 detailed industry figures for each State and Australia and the government employment series were published in two special bulletins (Reference No. 6.23) issued on 24 April 1970 and 11 January 1972. However, estimates by industry in those bulletins are not directly comparable with the estimates by industry contained in this bulletin, due to the adoption of ASIC (see previous paragraph).

14. It is expected that in due course a revised series will be published for the period June 1966 to May 1971, classified according to ASIC. However, it may not be possible to provide as much industry detail as for June 1971 and subsequent periods. ASIC estimates cannot be derived for periods prior to June 1966.

FOOTNOTES TO TABLES

- (a) Government employees comprise not only administrative employees, but also all other employees, within Australia, of government bodies (Australian, State, local and semi-government) on services such as railways, road transport, banks, postal and telecommunications, air transport, education (including universities), radio and television, police, public works, factories, departmental hospitals and institutions, etc. Excludes State and local government employees engaged in agriculture (3.5 thousand persons in June 1975). Also excludes permanent defence forces.
- (b) Permanent defence forces in Australia and overseas (including national servicemen).
- (c) April 1973 held an unusual holiday period because Anzac Day fell two days after Easter Monday. This feature is thought to have had a depressing effect on the expansion of employment in the last pay-period of April and, by postponement, to have reinforced expansion in May. Such an effect remains in the seasonally adjusted as well as in the original figures.

Table 2.

- (a) Includes persons employed in the Australian Capital Territory who reside in adjoining areas.
- (b) See note (c) to Table 1.
- (c) Refers to the period immediately prior to cyclone Tracy.
- (d) For January and subsequent months includes employees on leave following cyclone Tracy. Excludes employees relocated temporarily or permanently in employment outside the Northern Territory, who have been included in estimates for the appropriate States or the Australian Capital Territory.

Table 3.

- (a) Australian Standard Industrial Classification — see paragraph 12, page 3.
- (b) Excludes ASIC Sub-divisions 01 Agriculture and 02 Services to agriculture.
- (c) Excludes members of the permanent defence forces.
- (d) Excludes ASIC Sub-division 94 Private households employing staff.
